A dash of Experience

Graduate Work Internships at Angostura

What is a GWI? It is the acronym for Graduate Work Internship — “GWI”.

This handout was done with the intention of providing a bit more detail into the experiences of the present Graduate Interns in our company. Following are the accounts of the experiences of some of our interns about their time spent at Angostura thus far:

CHERRISSE SUBERO - GWI MARKETING (7 MONTHS)

Interactions with the more experienced staff and external customers have assisted in the development of my leadership skills, teamwork and interpersonal relationship. The opportunities to be part of a Project Team in the local and external environment have resulted in a deeper understanding of business strategies and customer relations.

JOLIE BLAKE -
GWI MAIN LABORATORY
(5 MONTHS)

I love nothing more than working in a laboratory environment and the main lab provides four different sub labs in which one can either work in a particular area of interest or hone new skills in an unfamiliar one. I know that the hands-on training I've received thus far would be an invaluable asset as I proceed with my career. Other than the professional aspect of this experience I am pleasantly surprised by the wonderful sense of community that Angostura takes great care to foster. In general my time as a GWI at Angostura has exceeded all expectations and I anxiously look forward to the upcoming months.

KHELICE RENNIE - GWI HUMAN RESOURCES (10 MONTHS)

My GWI experience has been nothing short of spectacular- for my 10 months here, I have gained an all-encompassing knowledge of the Company, liaised with people across all departments as well as external organizations and developed my interpersonal skills. I have been fortunate to be granted a high level of autonomy to perform a variety of tasks, while at the same time having people to turn to for support and advice.

Our distillery at Laventille.

DAAVEED RAMSINGH - GWI DISTILLERY (7 MONTHS)

I work with very capable and diligent personnel, who never hesitate in providing me with assistance with any problems I have, for which I am always thankful. Comparing myself to before I came to work here and now, I have definitely grown to trust in my knowledge and abilities and how they play a role in the workplace, I credit Angostura in my development and will continue to learn and give back as my time here progresses.

Did you know about Angostura:

... that our five-column still has a capacity of distilling 20,000,000 litres of spirit each year – enough to make 67 million bottles of rum?

... that our ageing warehouse contains an inventory of over 70,000 barrels of ageing rums, enough to make 26 million bottles of rum?

You will need to know all these facts by heart if you apply as a GWI! ***

* just kidding... but it's interesting anyways, isn't it?

Graduate Work Internship Programme

The primary objective of Angostura's Graduate Work Internship (GWI) Programme is to provide participants with the knowledge, skills and abilities to effectively bridge the gap from university to the working environment.

The following guidelines apply to Angostura's GWI Programme:

The programme is one (1) year in duration upon completion of degree. Graduates will not be automatically absorbed into the organisation upon completion of the programme.

Entry requirements:

- Bachelor's Degree from a recognised university having obtained ideally First or Upper Second Class Honours.
- Degrees must have been obtained no more than twelve (12) months prior to the commencement of the internship.
- Unemployed applicants as well as persons without significant work experience will be given first preference.

Graduates from the following disciplines may be eligible:

- Human Resources
- Marketing
- Accounting/Finance
- Engineering
- Chemistry/Bio Chemistry
- Computer Science/Information Systems
- Environment
- Corporate Communications
